Dear Parents,

School Fees 2023- 2024

As usual and always during the Easter break, the Governors have recently completed a detailed annual review of the School budget for the next academic year.

It would be fair to say that over recent years all independent schools have faced challenges, in this respect, Kingswood House as I am sure you will be aware has been no exception. In spite of this, all in the School community have pulled together and gone to extraordinary lengths to provide the best possible high-quality education for our pupils. I would add, that you the parents have been quite magnificent in giving your wholehearted continued support to Kingswood House, and for this I thank you most sincerely.

The last few years have undoubtedly been historic ones for the School. The move up to aged 16 has been highly successful, while the introduction of co-education in September 2021 has also been very well received and girl numbers continue to increase. Parental interest in the School as a direct result of these positive strategic decisions continues to grow.

Over this time, the School has quite rightly continued to be forward looking and to plan for and invest in its future, and by doing so, ensuring that the Kingswood House offer to your children and indeed to you as parents, is both appropriate and attractive. We have continued to make essential investments in facilities, resources and the academic staff, as well as more obvious developments such as the renewal of the all-weather pitch, significant investment in ICT and additional aesthetic upgrades, as well as totally upgrading our catering facilities, an unseen, but clearly essential investment. As the School evolves further, we will continue to invest to ensure the quality of the Kingswood House unique offer is highly competitive in all areas of our provision.

In reviewing the School's budget for the forthcoming academic year, we have cut as much expenditure as we possibly can, while also maintaining high quality and still achieving the school's key objectives and values. Yet as I am sure you will also
